The other is the nagging problem of all time-travel books, to wit the competing and mutually exclusive notions of A History, one divinely ordained way for Kleio to design and her sisters the Fates to weave; the other is the Eastern philosophical and string theory-supported proposition that we live in a many-dimensional multiverse where all things that can happen have happened are happening will happen. Narrator Zara Ramm does an excellent job of bringing Max and these books to life. I can't wait for the next installment of Max's adventures through time and space. It would seem Ma Taylor plumped for the "One True History" solution, based on the events in this book. I love the fast pace and intertwined subplots as well as the interesting characters. Also fun for most of the proceedings. The Chronicles of St Mary's Series by cover 1-8 of 26 next show all. Their weird as good as. The "Common Knowledge" section now includes a "Series" field.
